

Antonia Mandry, Education Specialist, UNICEF East Asia and Pacific Regional Office (Doctor of Education in International Educational Development and Master's in Education), a US national, has been working in the field of education since 2002. Her work focuses on international educational development with experience including digital learning, climate-smart education, Education in Emergencies, teacher training, education management information systems, humanitarian cash transfers, curriculum and teaching, and evaluation and assessment. She has worked with UNICEF since 2012 with previous experience in Chad, Turkey, South Sudan and Yemen.