

Vina Adriany is a Director of Southeast Asian Minister of Education Organization, Centre for Early Childhood Care Education and Parenting (SEAMEO CECCEP). She is also a Professor at the Department of Early Childhood Education, Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia. She is currently Her scholarship focuses on the issues of gender and social justice in early childhood education (ECE), the construction of children and childhood in marginal communities, and the impact of neoliberalism in ECE. Her research mainly adopts theories that include feminist poststructuralism and postcolonialism. She has published numbers of peer-review article on the issues. She has wide ranges of advocacy and academic experiences in the field of ECCE and parenting at the national, regional and international levels.